

Chinese motors production stable in September YOY

BEIJING (Asian Metal) 18 Oct 11 – According to China Automobile Industry Association, affected by the traditional boom season for motors, the motors production and sales of China in September were 1.602 and 1.646 millions, up by 15% and 19.19% month-on-month respectively.

At the same time, compared with those of last year, the motor sales saw a slight increase of 5%, but the production kept almost stable. In addition, the motor stocks of China decreased by 35,400 pieces in September month-on-month, which shows participants still hold a conservative attitude towards the motor market this year.

The following chart shows the motor production and sales of China from January to September of 2011.

